4/2/77

Dear A.I.,

As always the clippings are valuable and helpful. Many thanks.

I hope you can continue, especially now with the later developments on this and the handwriting analysis on that note of which I got a copy in 8/75.

It appears that as you say deM was cracking up. Too bad it happened.

And that others are commercializing it.

On the Midnight story your memory has not failed: the picture is not new.

As we get older we get younger in heart when spring comes.

By the time you 82 got up here it was only a little under 80.

We had ice on the pond when the crucuses came out. Now the flowers in bloom include tulips and daffodils. Japanese cherry in full bloom but heavy rains may have totalled them. Other trees swelling with bud.

It had been my hope to get to Dallas this weekend but court developments precluded it. A friend there was making it possible.

Thanks and best rehards,
